01 · THE PROBLEM

Food rarely goes to waste because nobody wants it. It goes to waste because nobody found it in time.

38d left

MUSHIN · 7:40AM
1,200 cartons. 38 days left. A retailer three streets away needs exactly this, and neither of them knows it.

Financial losses
Stock ends in steep discounts, becomes unsellable or gets written off.

Trapped working capital
Money sits tied up in inventory that isn't moving as planned.

Limited visibility
No easy way to see which batches need urgent attention today.

Fragmented buyers
Retailers, canteens and vendors who would buy never see the offer.

Messy fulfilment
Quantities, payment, pickup and handover live in scattered calls.

Recovery gaps
Good food misses recipients with the capacity to use it before expiry.

Weak documentation
No reliable record of what was sold, donated, rejected or discarded.

Invisible to lenders
Informal records don't show the turnover a business really achieves.

THE CONNECTION GAP

The stock, the buyer and the recipient are often on the same street.

These problems are connected. SecondShelf joins them on one platform, turning inventory visibility into actionable opportunities and documenting every result.

Without SecondShelf · With SecondShelf

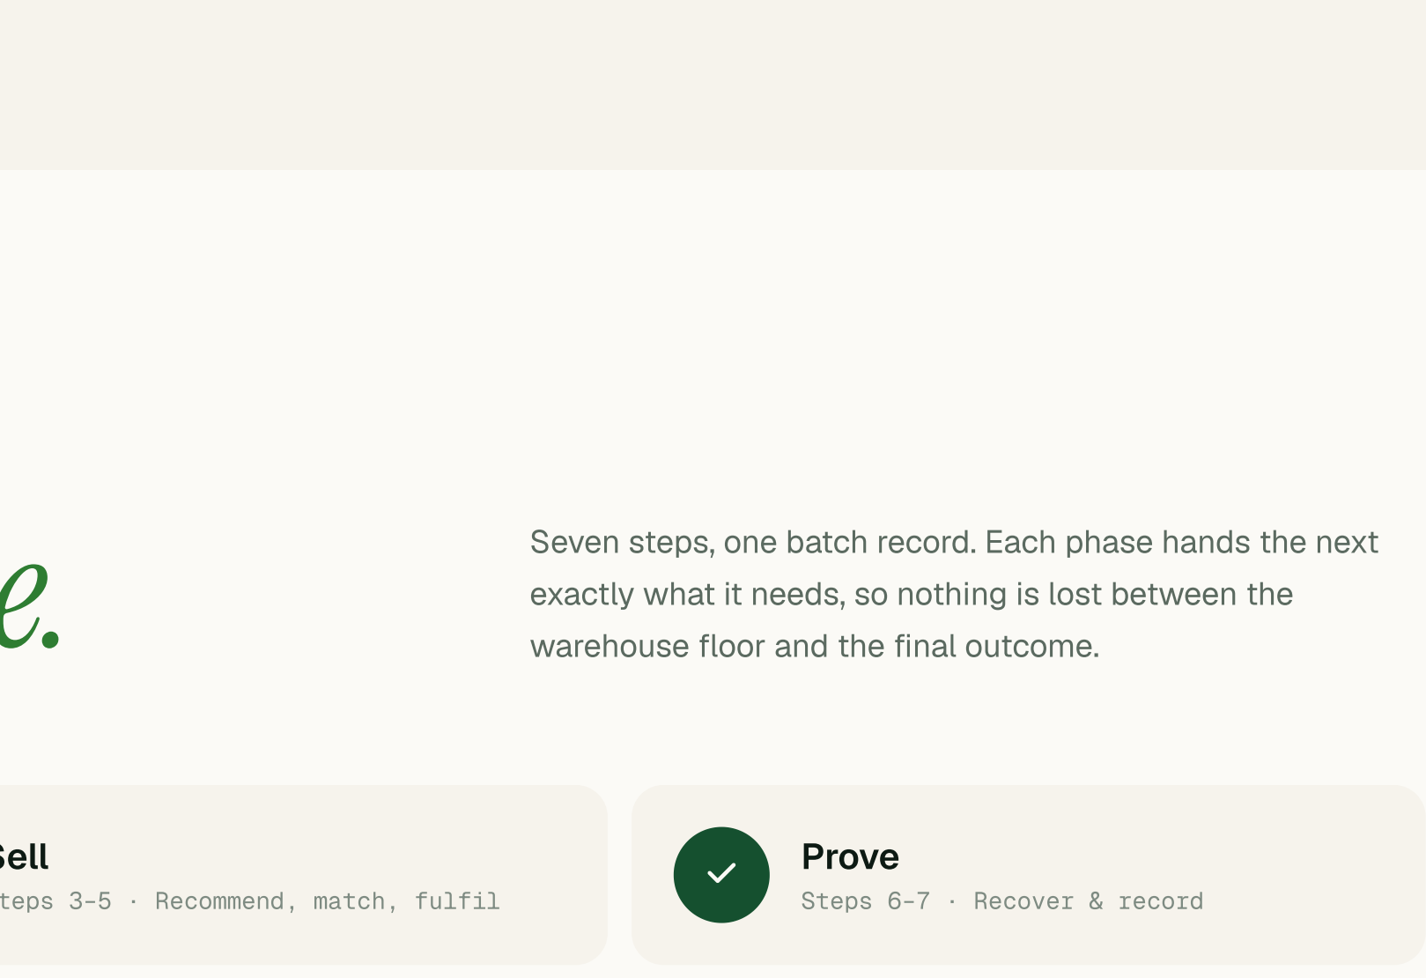
✓ Matched before expiry. Recorded at every step.



02 · HOW IT WORKS

Scan. Sell. Prove.

Seven steps, one batch record. Each phase hands the next exactly what it needs, so nothing is lost between the warehouse floor and the final outcome.

Scan Steps 1–2 · Record & prioritise
Sell Steps 3–5 · Recommend, match, fulfil
Prove Steps 6–7 · Recover & record

STEP 01

Record the inventory

Scan a barcode or enter details by hand: product, batch, quantity, use-by date, storage, location, pricing and photos. Missing or inconsistent details are flagged before anything is listed.

STEP 02

Prioritise at-risk stock

The Smart Expiry Radar ranks batches by shelf life left, quantity, buyer demand and delivery time, against thresholds you configure.

ⓘ Barcodes identify a product, not its batch. SecondShelf asks for what the code can't tell you: expiry, quantity and condition.

03 · THE PLATFORM

A network you visit every day. Not a clearance bin you visit in a panic.

Professional network

Know who's buying before you need to sell.

Verified business profiles, connections and a feed of listings, supplier opportunities and recovery programmes.

04 · WHO IT'S FOR

Everyone who touches food, on one record.

The pilot starts with distributors, but SecondShelf is built for the whole chain. Access follows each user's role, verification status and permissions.

- Food businesses & sellers →
- Buyers & commercial recipients →
- Food banks & charities →
- Logistics & collection partners →

FOOD BUSINESSES & SELLERS

Turn slow stock into recovered revenue.

WHO THEY ARE

Manufacturers · Distributors · Wholesalers · Market traders · Farmers · Supermarkets · Restaurants · Hotels & caterers · Food processors

WHAT THEY CAN DO

- ✓ Register eligible inventory
- ✓ Discover buyers
- ✓ Track sales
- ✓ List surplus stock
- ✓ Manage offers
- ✓ Document every batch outcome

Sponsors & institutions
Fund recovery programmes, support logistics and access aggregated reports.

Environmental assessors

05 · BUSINESS PASSPORT

Your trading history, finally on the record.

Every completed transaction becomes part of a structured record of your business. With your consent, it could one day help lenders see the business you've actually built.

- ✓ Completed sales & transaction values
- ✓ Repeat orders & customer activity
- ✓ Stock movement & reconciliation
- ✓ Inventory turnover & recovery history
- ✓ Fulfilment & cancellation records
- ✓ Recovery outcomes & evidence

What it doesn't do
It never promises a loan, sets a binding credit score or guarantees a lower rate. Lending decisions stay with the financial institution, and records are always labelled as self-reported or evidence-backed.

06 · IMPACT

Two ledgers. Never blurred.

A discounted sale isn't automatically saved waste. SecondShelf measures money and environmental outcomes separately, and claims only what the evidence supports.

Ledger A

Commercial value recovered

How the business performs.

Ledger B

Environmental outcomes

What happened to the food, and the evidence for it.

- Food type, quantity & baseline destination →
- Actual outcome & final destination →
- Stayed in the human food supply chain? →
- Transport, storage & packaging activity →
- Methodology inputs & evidence quality →

GUARDRAIL
Losses avoided
Compared against the business's likely outcome without SecondShelf, never the full sale value.

GUARDRAIL
Avoided food waste
Some stock would have sold anyway; some delivered food is later rejected. Both are accounted for.

GUARDRAIL
Reporting
Quantities are reported at each stage. Outcomes are calculated only with sufficient evidence.
